“ We will be keeping Mindi and her kids in prayer as the send of this amazing human being to be with our savior. We remember the little band rehearsals we had at Heath and Mindys house and he was always so welcoming treating us as it was our house. May you rest in Heaven Heath.....

“Heath was a man with few words unless he had something to say. Usually quiet in a crowd but in a small group or one on one he was quite the conversationalist. He was a man who loved his family most of all above anything else, family came first. I was lucky enough to be chosen by the James gang to be a part of that family. I was wife #2 or so he often called me (especially if I was asking him to do something around the house). He would tell me, Sandi I already have one wife I damn sure don't need another. But then he would always do whatever was asked. Insert smart-ass comment here. He also called me genius and told me I made a better door than a window. Speaking of doorways, I always seemed to be in one whenever he needed to pass by and he always let me know about it. Insert smart-ass comment here. But it was always in good fun and never, well not often, serious. He was very good to me throughout the years, even through some of the hardest times of my life. He helped me anyway he could. Whether it was a talk, ride, a place to live, or just a shoulder to cry on, he was always there anytime. He was the best papa I've ever seen, he loved those kids so much. Like I said before, he loved his family more than anything else in this world. Seeing him with those kids was awesome and oh gosh the way he loved his wife, that was something special. You don't see that kind of love nowadays. Him and Mindi were always dancing with each other in the kitchen. If they weren't dancing they were always showing each other affection in some way or form, always. Kissing, touching, hugging, and butt slap or two. Lol the bond they had really was something special to see. His 3 kids were lucky to have him as a father and you can ask any of them and they will tell you the same thing. He was the advice giver, the listener, the babysitter and the fixer of broken things. It's been quite a loss for the James gang as he was the centerpiece of the family. The glue so to speak. But with that great loss there is also great love in this family and love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. I truly believe that. So with that we go forward, enduring this life through the heartaches, pain and losses that this world throws at us knowing we will see each other again on the other side someday. I would just like to say thank you, thank you to each and everyone of the James family. Thank you for the memories, thank you for the laughs, the good times and hard times, for all of it. Thank you for letting me be a small part in this journey of life. I love you all dearly and you are my family. So with that, cheers to you Heath, I'll drink an 805 and instead of saying goodbye I'll say see you on the other side, and thank you for being my friend and bother. Love you always, Sandra
