“ Aunt Ethel, as I always affectionately called her, was such a blessing to all of us. So many happy times and beautiful memories to cherish that go back as far as I can remember in life. You and Uncle Harden were such positive influences on me and I appreciated all the love you showed and gave me. I know you are now in a better place and we will see you again. Rest in peace Aunti.

“ I remember growing up around Ethyl and uncle Wiley (as a kid, I didn't know it wasn't his first name haha) at the house behind Whitten pumps. We were always welcome like true family every time. I felt like we were related by blood and I never questioned it. She was always the kindest, sweetest, women I had ever been around. My fo dear memories always involved her getting onto Wiley about those damn peacocks and them getting into the garden! I remember when I graduated from 8th grade and she told my mom that she had some real fine suits for me to have and try on so I could look nice going across the stage. She and and Wiley turned me onto some really nice suits! One was black with white pin stripes. I always loved her higher pitch voice and how she treated us like her own. I will forever be grateful for the memories and most importantly, the life lessons I learned about people from her and her family. It truly shaped me into who I became as a man and how I viewed the world. She was truly a pinnacle figure in my life and she will surly be missed!

“ It's been over two weeks since my aunt Ethel Wiley passed away. I need to share how blessed I have been to have her for a aunt. Monday Nov.13th my life change drastically. I always say that nobody dies unexpectedly because we know death is inevitable. She was not perfect “Thank God” who could live up to that. There is no perfect person but I think she was perfect for our family. She had her struggles but she always led with Love . Aunt Ethel and my mom always said family is everything keep the family together. What she was perfect at was never giving up, she battled through Grace, intelligent, patience (not to much) I always told her to be patience. She had infinite amount of love for everyone, she knew mostly everyone at the Delano Skilled Nursing Facility. Whether she knew you for a minute or years she was not judgmental of anyone. She was kind but she spoke her mind. I remember coming to see her on Nov. 8th she was so happy, laughing and full of life. She thank me for coming and I told her you don't have to thank me I come because I love you. Nov. 13th the Lord call you home to g Glory. I know you're in Heaven with Uncle, Jerene snd her boys , family and friends, But most of the Lord. Thank you for making an impact in my life. Rest in peace my aunt Ethel Wiley. I will always cherish the memories and relationship we had forever. Love Your Niece Geneva

“ To our beloved Aunt

Aunt Ethel was a person who told stories that took us back into our family history. Through her stories, she taught lessons of life, of culture, tradition, and family bonds. She had the remarkable ability to find joy in the simplest of things, teaching us to appreciate the beauty of a loving family, keeping a clean house, and the little things that often go unnoticed but are part of life's beauty, “her plants!”

As we reminisce about the beautiful journey Aunt Ethel took, we realize that her legacy is not just in the memories she leaves behind, but are reflected in the lives she touched, the hearts she warmed, and those of us she nurtured with her love and affection.

We remember her playing the piano at church. We'd sit there and watch her doze off at the piano. But, she “always” woke up right on queue to play the next song. And she didn't miss a beat! We would visit her and take her banana nut bread and listen to her talk politics. We was very sharp and current on all life's events.

Life through challenges at her, but you faced them head on. Her resilience was in inspiration to all of us.

As we say farewell, we do so with hearts overflowing with gratitude, love, and beautiful memories.

*Rest in peace, Dear Aunt. You will forever be in our hearts.”
