Frank was a stand up guy and was there “really there” for his friends that needed someone to be by their side. I met Frank through our mutual friend Charlie DeSimone. Charlie was in poor health the last few years of his life. Everytime I came to visit him, Frank was either there or showed up just as I was leaving. He took Charlie to doctor appointments, walks in the neighborhood, brought him lunch or snacks and visited to just hear Charlie discuss his day. He took care of those he loved but he touched the hearts of all he met. Welcome home Frank:)
