“ Too many memories good mostly I have with my boy Nate I spent the majority of his last two together partying a bit mostly just trying to grow up. Nate was my one of my best friends and he waa like a little brother to me. We got in a an argument and werre never able to make amends. Let that be a testimony of what is and isnt important in life.

“ We went to eat at Nimitz BBQ with some of our family. Nate (maybe he was 5yo) happened to be there and had to go to the bathroom really bad. My brother volunteered to take him. Nate was wearing overalls. And when he took off his overalls the money in his front/top pocket fell out and went into the toilet. Nate was crying his eyes out and wanted his money so bad. (Reminder: Nate is maybe 5yo and we are talking change here) so, my brother goes all in and gets Nates money for him. When they came out, Nates face was red and you could tell he was crying. When we asked we didn't expect that story. But Nate got his money because my brother saved the day!!!!
